New York based—Lithuanian Catholic Religious Aid LCRA

Founded in 1961, LCRA was primarily focused on supporting the embattled Church and its faithful in Soviet occupied Lithuania. This included buttressing the Church leadership in Lithuania and in exile in Siberia. LCRA actively pursued these goals and provided material and moral aid to those in need. Documentation of these early years is sparse because information about these aid recipients who worked the underground was guarded... The support was varied: religious items for the clergy, medicine for those who were ill, food products for the poor, and clothing for the exiled and imprisoned... Over the years, LCRA's focus has shifted with the changing challenges of the people in Lithuania... During the Soviet occupation, LCRA supported religious and human rights. Lithuania having regained its independence, there is now an urgent need for Lithuania to heal and grow spiritually. LCRA continues to support this Christian worldview... and support the healing of the soul of Lithuania through the generosity of its donors for more than 60 years.
